

“You can’t live with yourself this way, Robert. It’s getting harder and harder to be a fireman when you know the truth about yourself, ain’t it?” blurted his reflection in the glass.

But the money, like I’ve never seen before. Maybe I should give up being a fireman – and stay an arsonist? He shudders at his own thought.